Sand Products

As you may be aware there are a number of sand products in New Zealand that have been identified as potentially containing asbestos. One of these products has been found stored in two rooms in the school. The rooms have been locked and are not accessible to anyone. We are currently following Ministry of Education guidelines to manage this including arrangements for the rooms to be checked by professionals. We believe that there are no other areas of concern at East Tāmaki School.

We will keep you informed on this matter when we receive new information.

If you are concerned for your child's health it is recommended that you visit your local doctor.

Thank you.
