TARARUA COLLEGE

Authenticity Declaration

Dear Caregivers

A large amount of student work is being internally assessed at the secondary school level.

The school acknowledges that it is appropriate for students to learn from others at home and gather information from a variety of sources, e.g. books, Internet etc when preparing assignments. Teachers, however, must be satisfied that the work produced is that of the student, and not copied, except for direct quotes which must be acknowledged.

The school asks that caregivers discuss with their children the importance of producing work that is their own. The consequences for copying the work of others and passing it off as their own work is serious. If this is the case, the work will be ruled ineligible for credit, and there may be other consequences.

Please note: this is for information only – you and your child will receive a physical copy to sign for our files.
